Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Oct. 5 - Jan. 5, 2025 - "French Moderns: Monet to Matisse, 1850 - 1950". In France, the years between the Revolution of 1848 and the end of World War II were characterized by sweeping social, intellectual, and political change. The Western art world, centered in Paris, also witnessed remarkable transformations as artists experimented with bold, expressive styles that revitalized traditional genres. The exhibition showcases more than 50 works from the distinguished Brooklyn Museum collection, encompassing the key avant-garde movements that emerged in and around Paris during this period. Realism, Impressionism, Post-Impressionism, Symbolism, Fauvism, Cubism, and Surrealism are represented in remarkable examples by the era's leading artists, including Paul Cézanne, Marc Chagall, Camille Corot, Edgar Degas, Henri Matisse, Claude Monet, Berthe Morisot, and more. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Through Feb. 2, 2025 - "Constantine Manos: A Greek Portfolio". Born in Columbia to Greek immigrant parents in 1934, Constantine Manos traveled to Greece in the early 1960s, where he photographed the everyday lives of villagers over a period of three years. The resulting body of work, first published in 1972 as A Greek Portfolio, solidified the photographer's reputation and quickly earned international recognition. In 1978, he donated 50 of those prints to the Columbia Museum of Art, a selection of which is on view in this exhibition. Manos' account captures the beauty, simplicity, and hardships of rural Greek life with the sensitivity of one with familial ties to that country. In intimate images exploring love, loss, faith, and family, the artist prompts reflection on the nature of human relationships and the connections between land and labor. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Free admission through Labor Day - The Columbia Museum of Art has been selected to participate in Art Bridges Foundation's Access for All program, a transformative, three-year funding initiative aimed at increasing access to museums across America and fostering engagement with local audiences. McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through Dec. 14 - "Layers of Legacy: Exploring Daily Life and Colonialism in Cameroon". The exhibit investigates the art and culture of the Grassfields of northwestern Cameroon, a country of rich resources exploited by European agents of the transatlantic slave trade and colonizers from the late 1400s until the 1960s. This collection features objects ranging from household items to ritual masks that inspire contemplation of their purpose and the intersection of art with everyday life. Layers of Legacy also encourages reflection on our responsibility as viewers, urging us to consider the circumstances surrounding the objects' acquisition and the ethical implications of our engagement with them. Co-curated by the undergraduate and graduate students of the museumology class on exhibition development, spring 2024, and taught by Dr. Lana Burgess. All objects on exhibition are in the permanent collection of McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina. Through Dec. 14 - "Sign of the Times: Political Posters of the 20th and 21st Centuries". The political poster had its beginnings in the 1840s when a new lithograph printing process was developed. Hand colored portraits of presidential and vice-presidential candidates were first printed in the 1844 election for candidate Henry Clay and the winner, James K. Polk. The lithographic process improved over the years. During World War I and World War II, poster production was at its height, especially during Franklin Roosevelt's terms. During the 1950s and 1960s, the "floating head" poster was created where a photograph of the candidate was used, eliminating the need for an artist. Between 1968 and 1972, many famous artists designed posters for fundraisers. However, popularity of political posters began to fade, as marketing candidates moved to television and then social media. McKissick Museum's political collection began when the museum was founded in 1976. Over the past forty plus years the collections have grown to over 10,000 items. Most of the collection features ephemera from presidential races. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. 701 Center for Contemporary Art, 701 Whaley St., Columbia. Main Gallery, Through Oct. 6 - "Womb Rooms," an installation by Artist in Residence Jordan Sheridan, who investigates the intricate realms of motherhood and identity through her unique blend of textile installations. Born in Northeastern Arkansas in 1989, Sheridan's artistic trajectory has been deeply shaped by her experience as a mother, particularly since the birth of her son Samuel in 2017. Her pursuit of an MFA degree at the University of South Carolina marked a pivotal moment in her artistic evolution, catalyzing a shift from 2-D painting to large-scale textile installations. During her residency, Sheridan has immersed herself in the creation of a series of "womb rooms" using crocheted textiles, which will be featured in her upcoming exhibition at 701 CCA. These rooms will serve as a labyrinth within the gallery space, inviting visitors to engage in a tactile exploration of maternal identity. Through interactive sculpture, audio, and light, each room will offer a unique sensory experience, reflecting Sheridan's profound narrative on the journey of motherhood. Oct. 24 - Dec. 29 - "Roefs/Waddell Collection," one of the largest private contemporary art collections in the state. Featuring more than 40 framed black and white photographs taken during the team's 1996-1997 season, 521 All-Stars depicts baseball in its purest form: scrap metal bases, rotten wood bleachers, teams made up of brothers, fathers, sons and, most importantly, fellowship within the community. Ongoing - The South Carolina State Museum, the state's largest and most comprehensive museum, is located along the banks of the beautiful Congaree River in downtown Columbia, South Carolina.
