Davidson creates poseable figures/dolls to use as actors for her work as a means of projection, creating reflective narratives from paint, canvas or paper, or a moving image. Davidson is currently an assistant professor of painting in the Department of Fine Arts at Winthrop University. Elizabeth Dunlap Patrick Gallery, Through Mar. 13 - "NEO I NEO," a retrospective of the late Winthrop faculty David Freeman (1937-2013). Featuring paintings by Rockwell Kent, Robert Gwathmey, Elliott Daingerfield, and Gladys Nelson Smith, this exhibition focuses on the innate but highly complex connection between humans and the land on which they live, and specifically addresses the various ways that artists working in the American South relate to their native or adopted landscape. This relationship cannot be reduced to a single definition, but rather encompasses a wide range of emotions and perspectives that artists have conveyed through their portrayal of human presence in the landscape.
