As part of the campus-wide celebration of the historical legacy of Black Mountain College (BMC) at Appalachian State University during the Spring 2018 semester, the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts will host, "Creative Democracy: The Legacy of Black Mountain College" featuring a selection of art and artifacts from Black Mountain College artists and writers. During its shimmering, stormy history, many of the nation's greatest thinkers and artists were in residence or paid visits to Black Mountain. Black Mountain College (1933-1957) near Asheville, in North Carolina's rural Swannanoa Valley, was an early leader of progressive, experimental education in the twentieth century. Influential writers, visual artists, dancers, designers, and music composers instilled in their students and colleagues many of the same values upheld by Appalachian State University today: learning by doing, collaborative learning, and education for social justice and democracy. Not only a mecca of the arts, Black Mountain produced some of America's most profound innovators in education, science, social work, architecture, urban planning, psychiatry, history, and politics. All of those who passed through the college were encouraged to become citizens of social consciousness who put into daily practice a creative freedom in judgment and action. Mayer Gallery, Through Aug. 4 - "High Country Herbarium: Preserving Plants & Plant Communities in the Southern Appalachians". Guest curated by faculty and staff in the Department of Biology at Appalachian State University, the exhibition is a collaborative and interdisciplinary exhibit displaying herbarium vouchers from Appalachian State University's I. Carpenter, Jr. Herbarium houses approximately 30,000 specimens and is actively adding to the growing collection located in Rankin Science West. Cary Arts Center, 101 Dry Avenue, Cary. Cary Arts Center Gallery, Through Apr. 22 - "Catching Ourselves: Megan Bostic, Dawn Surratt, and Heather Lewis". As the result of a profound loss, grief is a natural, inescapable part of living. For these artists, grief has become an integral part of their lives, and in the way they create art. Their grief has also served as a catalyst: catalyst to make connections as part of the healing process, catalyst to create pieces that engage the public with uncomfortable topics and catalyst to give voice and visualization to their experiences. Catching Ourselves will explore how grief changes over time and how grief changes us over time. Cary Arts Center Principal's Hall, Through Apr. 22 - "Seeing While Being Seen: Dancers in Action by Steve Clarke". Since becoming involved with photography in 1995, Steve Clarke has worked with dancers in action, practitioners of yoga, and other performers. His approach is interactive rather than documentary: his images involve collaboration and improvisation with the subject rather than documentation of previously-composed action. Clarke is particularly interested in exploration and discovery on the subject's part, stimulated by the presence of the camera and the feedback and perspective that it provides. Clarke's book of dance photographs, Seeing While Being Seen, was published in 2004 by the National Dance Association. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. The Brown Gallery welcomes her new exhibition entitled "Aswurm With the Spirits of All Ages Here: Inconceivable Spaces of Slavery and Freedom". The title is adapted from a passage of UNC at Chapel Hill professor Bland Simpson's memoir "The Great Dismal, a Carolinian's Swamp Memoir," about the Great Dismal Swamp, long understood to be a place of refuge for enslaved persons. In it Simpson notes the presence of spirits in a place long thought to be inhabitable: "This vast wild region is a place well fit for a grand gathering of ghosts, a place simultaneously aswurm with the spirits of all ages here, of fin, feather, and manflesh; nor am I exempt." He spent much of his time copying the Louvre's Rembrandts and Tintoretto's and finally made a decisive switch to painting in 1938. Initially he followed the Cubists, constructing latticed compositions that
