ings, papier-mâché sculptures, abstracts in cold wax and oil, and 3-dimensional oil on canvas paintings featuring women and animals. "Art is where I go for refuge, replenishing, and how I pay homage to what sustains me. This body of work is cold wax and oil on wood panels. The properties of cold wax fascinate me and keep me curious; how the underlying layers inform and alter the layers applied over them, how incising and scraping and glazing make more changes. I know I am wielding the palette knife and mixing the colors, but what happens on the panel is beyond my control. I'm learning how to be fine with the state of 'not knowing'." Work by Jodi Lynn McNeely

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Merancas Campus, Merancas IV, 1930 Verhooff Dr., Huntersville. Through Dec. 8 - "The Works of Jodi Lynn McNeely". Charlotte artist Jodi Lynn McNeely has a drive to paint something, make something, or fix something. After taking numerous art classes at Central Piedmont Community College and participating in several ceramic workshops, Jodi built a studio and gallery on her property in South Charlotte, Her Industrial Design Bachelors Degree, ceramics education, and free form carvings have emerged as her signature style, creating unique pieces with structural integrity and aesthetic interest. Originally from Texas, Jodi is influenced by Mexican and Chinese Folk Art. Her brightly colored work often includes re-purposed wrought or cast iron. A form of journaling, her carvings many times feature people she has met on her journey. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Davidson College, Belk Visual Arts Center, 315 North Main and Griffith Streets, Davidson. Van Every & Smith Galleries, Through Oct.

1 - "Endia Beal: Spaces of Comfort". The exhibition is the result of a two-year-long residency with internationally acclaimed artist Endia Beal, commissioned by Davidson College, with the support of the Elizabeth Firestone Graham Foundation. Over the course of the residency, Beal met with more than 100 students, on campus and via Zoom, for group conversations and one-on-one listening sessions. During her individual conversations with students, drawing on her experience as a Black woman attending predominantly white universities, Beal asked students about their occupation of space: What is your space of comfort on campus? Where do you feel seen and heard? Where can you be yourself? Where do you choose not to go on campus? Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgalleries.org).

Elizabeth Ross Gallery, Central Piedmont's, Central Campus, Overcash Performing Arts Center, Elizabeth Avenue and Kings Dr., Charlotte. Through Oct. 5 - "Humanity Through Environments by Tuan Mai and Ingrid Swanson". Recent graduates of the Associate in Visual Arts program, Tuan Mai and Ingrid Swanson, bring us an energetic and colorful exhibition, "Humanity Through Environments." The exhibition focuses on our environments as human being as in what ways we relate and conform (or not) to those environments. "Every story has a setting. We as humans are creatures whose memories and experiences are so often compelled by our surroundings. The question this body of work asks is, "What are we if not part of something greater?" says Ingrid Swanson. No one stands unaffected by the external forces at work in our lives. To detach yourself from your environment is to lose your humanity. Your environment is your perspective: from seeing life as it is to seeing cities bathed in color. Whether examining a story up close or seeing the bigger context, this series of oil, acrylic, watercolor, and ceramics tells of the interactions between people and spaces. Each facet of the face, each loose or contained brush mark, each detail informs the viewer of the subject's story. Swanson is a Latina artist, whose keen interest in the innermost parts of people's hearts has led her to pursue fine art. Though it may be through oil, acrylic, watercolor, or clay- bold marks and color are signature in Swanson's work. Raised in Vietnam, Mai came to the United States in 2017 to look for a new chapter in his art career. Mai's paintings are a series of art that try to capture the daily activities of communities. With different mediums such as oil paints, acrylic paints, ink, watercolor, Mai creates story-telling works of art. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-4pm or by appt. Work by Alda Muluneh

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Oct. 29 - "Stephanie J. Woods: where the sun shines". Organized by the Harvey B. Gantt Center, "where the sun shines", is an immersive dream-world created by Stephanie J. Woods. The artist transports the viewer between nowhere and everywhere, like a liminal space enveloping the senses. In this world, the sun always shines, the walls whistle, and Venus and Serena Williams play a never-ending tennis match in the sky. Inspired by the yellow walls of her childhood bedroom and the message Woods wrote on her bedroom door, where the sun shines is a new body of work that contains photographs, sculptures, textile works, and an immersive floor and video installation. During Woods' sojourn in Africa attending the prestigious Black Rock Senegal artist residency, founded by renowned artist Kehinde Wiley, she was mesmerized by the colors of the local fashion, and the board games played on the streets which reminded her of playing checkers with her papa. "where the sun shines" honors

Woods' memories growing up in Charlotte, NC. Memories of school lunches, acts of adultification, playground games, and fathers encouraging their baby girls to shine. Through Sept. 24 - "SEEING STARS: Works from the Fischer/Shull Collection of Contemporary Art," curated by Dexter Wimberly. The exhibition features works by Kehinde Wiley, Simone Leigh, Kerry James Marshall, and others. The evening will include savory bites, music, and remarks by curator of SEEING STARS, Dexter Wimberly. Over the past 25 years, Hedy Fisher and Randy Shull have amassed one of the most robust collections of contemporary art in North America. Built with passion and focus, their collection reflects a shared commitment to support authentic, diverse voices in the arts, and to champion important social justice issues. "SEEING STARS" highlights some of the groundbreaking, traditionally under-represented artists in the Fischer/Shull Collection, with an emphasis on works that provide profound commentary on American race and gender relations. The exhibition includes painting, sculpture, photography, and mixed-media works created by 22 of the most significant visual artists of our time, including: Sanford Biggers, Leonardo Drew, Aaron Fowler, Vanessa German, Aaron Gilbert, Trenton Doyle Hancock, Rashid Johnson, Titus Kaphar, Pope.L, Simone Leigh, Kerry James Marshall, Emmanuel Massillon, Rodney McMillian, Troy Michie, Zanele Muholi, Aida Muluneh, Alison Saar, Paul Mpagi Sepuya, David Shrobe, Nari Ward, Kehinde Wiley, and Peter William. Currently On View, "FuturePresent: Acquisition Highlights from the Permanent Collection". The exhibition from the Permanent Collection examines the Harvey B. Gantt Center's legacy of collecting. Since the organization's inception in 1974, the Gantt Center has primarily built its collection from works gifted to the institution. Over the decades, John and Vivian Hewitt collected paintings, prints, and drawings from artists near and far. And in 1998, Bank of America acquired the collection from the Hewitts and pledged it to the then-named Afro-American Cultural Center. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Lake Norman Art League Gallery, 442 S. Main St., located across the street from Wooden Stone, next to Masterworks; enter at the rear of the building, and turn right into the lobby, Davidson. Ongoing - Featuring works by Lake Norman Art League members. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-7pm. Contact: 704/620-4450 or at (www.LKNart.org).

Lamba Gallery, Storrs Building, 100, 9201 University City Blvd. UNC Charlotte Main Campus, Charlotte. Through Oct. 19 - "I Am Algorithm," featuring works by Jason Myers. A reception will be held on Oct. 12, from 5-7:30pm. Myers is a prolific multi-disciplinary American artist with studios in Indiana and the Netherlands. He received his BFA from the Kansas City Art Institute and his MFA from American University. Myers builds upon his experience in an array of media, consistently expanding their limits to create new hybrid techniques. The results are unique combinations of experimental artistic practices and raw industrial materials. His chosen materials often include steel, resin, and computer generated prints. He combines these materials with digital technology to explore such subjects as economics and alienation. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: 704/687-2397.

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Ott and Brewer, Coffeepot, Jacobsen Collection, 11 x 7 in.

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Sept. 23, from 9:15am-4pm - "Potters Market at the Mint 2023". A one-day sale featuring North Carolina potters on the lawn of Mint Museum Randolph. Don't miss what many consider to be the most important ceramics event in the state. This is a unique opportunity to see this much high-quality work in one location while getting to interact with each of the potters. Whether you are an experienced collector or new to the art form, whether you are interested in functional ware, abstract sculptures, or decorative pieces, there is something for everyone to enjoy. While the pottery and the potters are the main attraction, you can also enjoy live pottery demonstrations, buy a chance in our raffle, listen to great live bluegrass, relax in our beer garden, and take in all the galleries of the Mint Museum. For further information visit (www.pottersmarket-atthemint.com). Sept. 23 - Jan. 21, 2024 - "Walter Scott Lenox & American Belleek". Featuring 80 works from the Mint's permanent collection, as well as other notable public and private collections, this exhibition focuses solely on the earliest decades of American Belleek production and the role Walter Scott Lenox played in its development as an art form. Curated by Brian Gallagher, the Mint's senior curator of decorative arts, The Mint Museum is the exhibition's only venue. In 1857, McBirney and Company in the village of Belleek in County Fermanagh, Northern Ireland, began producing a new type of porcelain renowned for its light, delicately thin, ivory-colored body. Named for the town in which it was created, Belleek porcelain quickly became prized among discerning customers in the British Isles. As its popularity then spread across the Atlantic, several American ceramic manufactories in Trenton, New Jersey, sought to make their own version of Belleek. In 1882, Ott and Brewer became the first to succeed. Art of the Ancient Americas collection on the second floor of the Museum, Through Oct. 31 - "Guiding Winds," an installation by Rosalia Torres-Weiner, curated by Jennifer Sudul Edwards. The installation is part of the "Interventions Series", a new series at the Mint in which contemporary works are placed amongst permanent collection installations to create a critical dialogue between past and present. The history of humanity is a story of movement - groups migrating over land and water, carrying their ancestral practices with them. Traces remain, even when a tribe has moved on or hostile outsiders try to erase those traditions. Stories and symbols integrate, creating cultural strata that create a timeline of all who lived on a land. The maps and explanations throughout museum galleries illustrate this - sometimes overtly, other times subtly. Ongoing - "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". From crocks, jars, and jugs to pitchers, candleholders, and vases, "turning pots" is one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in North Carolina. For more than 200 years, members of the Cole family have been potting in central North Carolina — Randolph, Moore, Lee, and Montgomery counties. Six generations of Coles, and no fewer than 18 individuals, are represented in The Mint Museum's permanent collection. More than 60 highlights of their wares are included in the installation "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". One reason for its long-term success is that making pottery has so often been a family tradition in the state. Fathers taught the art of forming, glazing, and firing clay objects to their sons, and in later generations also to daughters, who in turn taught their children, and so on through the decades. These family dynasties not only helped to keep the potting craft alive, but ensured continuity in techniques and craftsmanship, as well as introduced artistic innovations in succeeding generations. "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters" presents a visual history of "turned pots" and the family that helped turn North Carolina into one of America's centers for handmade, traditional pottery. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection".
